Delayed Report on Departure on My Martins

I'm nearly three weeks late with this report, but there are extenuating circumstances.

My purple martins headed south July 1. I didn't report the departure promptly because I thought I saw some young martins peeping out of the boxes, and I figured the adult birds were off on a brief visit and would return.

After they had been gone a week I put it down as the navigational flight which the flock makes with the youngsters to teach them the art of changing continents. But when two weeks had passed without a sign of the big flock that was raised this year I knew my birds had definitely left.

The purple martin spends four months here, four months in South America, and four months on the roundtrip. He follows the bug crop. Of course there are still plenty of bugs in our area, but the martin knows Autumn is on its way to Arkansas, and so he's heading down the coast of Mexico to meet a brand new crop of bugs in Brazil.

Don't bother writing me that you still have your martins with you. No two boxes have the same record of arrivals and departures. Here's the record of my two boxes for the last 10 years:

1963 — March 21 — July 17
1964 — March 14 — July 4
1965 — March 6 — July 12
1966 — March 15 — July 4
1967 — March 29 — July 16
1968 — March 18 — July 4
1969 — Feb. 22 — July 5
1970 — Feb. 10 — July 3
1971 — Feb. 26 — July 11
1972 — March 1 — July 1

Japanese to remain under U.S. 'umbrella'

TOKYO (AP) — Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka said today Japan will remain under the U.S. nuclear umbrella while seeking to open neighborly relations with mainland China.

Japan has "no intention whatsoever" of revising its military security treaty with the United States, Tanaka told his first news conference since taking office two weeks ago.

However, Tanaka said he believes atomic weapons "must not be used under any circumstances." As the only nation to have experienced nuclear destruction, Japan will take the initiative toward a global ban on nuclear weapons, the 54-year-old prime minister said.

Portraying America as a big brother to whom Japan should be grateful, Tanaka said his government will make active efforts to reduce its huge favorable balance of trade with the United States. It was $3.2 billion in the year ending March 31.

Japan must exercise self-restraint in exporting to the United States, Tanaka said, but export restrictions will not be enough to narrow the gap. The government must promote import of U.S. goods, including finished products, liberalizing regulations and applying tariffs more flexibly, he said.

The Japanese people now have a common desire for close neighborly relations with mainland China, Tanaka said, and steps toward this will soon be taken.

McGovern lauded by newspaper

HONG KONG (AP) — North Vietnam's Communist party newspaper said today that the nomination of Sen. George McGovern "reflects, above all else, the strong and deep feelings of the American people against the war."

"It also reflects the bitter discontent ... over the continuous deceptions by so many past presidents in conducting the Vietnam war," Nhan Dan said in an editorial broadcast by Radio Hanoi. It was North Vietnam's first official comment on the Democratic presidential nomination.

Both the Democratic and Republican parties have pursued the war, the paper said, but "this time Mr. McGovern has introduced a more acceptable stand on Vietnam issues, a policy which recognizes that prolongation of the military adventure in Vietnam only pushes the United States more deeply into failures, errors and deadlock."

Nhan Dan said McGovern's nomination also demonstrated the discontent of the American people with "economic failures of the Nixon administration."

'Daughter' goes to parents'

WANTAGH, N.Y. (AP) — Nine-year-old Adrienne Schoenowitz shed frightened tears as she was reunited with her natural mother and separated from the foster parents who had cared for her since infancy.

"I don't want to go! I don't want to go!" the girl in pig-tails wailed Tuesday as she got into her mother's car after a wrenching goodbye to her foster parents, William and Beatrice Cahn.

It was the end of a year-long court struggle between the Cahns, who had brought up Adrienne, and Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Schoenowitz of Brooklyn, both reformed drug addicts, over custody of the child.

VN truck shuttle cuts path

WASHINGTON (AP) — The North Vietnamese apparently have cut a small path through the U.S. air and naval barrier by running a truck shuttle to the Chinese border.

Pentagon sources estimate the North Vietnamese receive between 10 per cent and 20 per cent of the 220,000 tons of supplies they formerly received from the outside.

The main routes of the truck shuttle run roughly parallel to the often-severed main rail lines connecting Hanoi with southeast China.

Freight trains from China reportedly unload at Dong Dang, a North Vietnamese town so close to the border that U.S. war planes avoid bombing it. At Dong Dang, North Vietnamese trucks pick up the war supplies and drive back along roads leading to the battlefield in the South.

An Air Force general, trying to convey the difficulties in shutting off this kind of traffic entirely, described the road network as "like the veins on the back of your hands."

Despite a heavy concentration of surface to air missiles in this region, Pentagon officials claim more than 30 important bridges have been disabled there.

This has paralyzed train movements inside North Vietnam, but the North Vietnamese have managed to keep some trucks rolling by improvising pontoon bridges and ferries. Most of the trucks drive at night.

The ingenious North Vietnamese are said to be putting flanged wheels on some of their trucks so these vehicles can ride train rails and transport cargo between breaks blasted by U.S. bombs.

Intelligence analysts were unable to say specifically what kind of supplies are coming into North Vietnam from China but there have been recent reports of new types of Chinese weapons appearing on the battlefields in South Vietnam.

Chances of war in Egypt may be cut by Russians' ouster

Egypt's decision to oust Soviet military advisers and to take over military installations the Russians have been manning in Egypt aroused guarded optimism among some Israelis today that it might lessen prospects of war in the near future. Others thought it might remove a restraining influence.

The Egyptian move announced Tuesday also raised questions about Cairo's future relations with the Kremlin.

There was no official Israeli comment. One source said the government was waiting to see if the Russians really withdrew.

Israeli newspapers described Egypt's action both as "daring" and "dangerous." The Jerusalem Post said the Soviet withdrawal could clear the way for Egypt to undertake "some kind of military adventure," but Cairo could not think in terms of major war without active Soviet assistance.

Silence was the initial reaction of the Soviet government to the action by a government in which it has invested billions of dollars. But some diplomats in Cairo speculated that the Kremlin and not Sadat was responsible for the withdrawal as the result of a secret agreement during President Nixon's visit to Moscow.

Announcing that his own soldiers will replace Soviet advisers and experts, Sadat said the Russians had let him down by not delivering arms promised in 1971 for confrontation with Israel.

The president also indicated friction over Soviet attempts to restrict the use of arms supplied Egypt. He said he had rejected such attempts and made clear on a visit to Moscow in April that Egypt would not tolerate dictation of its military policies.

Sadat said the Russian ouster "does not touch in anyway the essence of Soviet-Egyptian friendship" but it is necessary, he declared, to set "a new style for the coming stage of our friendship."

Even before Sadat's speech, an exodus of Russian officers from Egypt was visible, causing diplomats and officials in Cairo to buzz with speculation.

Troops battle toward Citadel

SAIGON (AP) — South Vietnamese forces battled their way toward the walled Citadel in the heart of Quang Tri City today and reported 163 North Vietnamese killed in house-to-house fighting Tuesday.

One government paratrooper unit was reported 100 yards from the southeastern corner of the 19th century fortress, and another was closing in from the northeast side.

Initial reports said the North Vietnamese killed five government soldiers and wounded 20 in the fighting Tuesday.

The U.S. Command said three American Phantom jets bombed a South Vietnamese position six miles southeast of Quang Tri City by mistake, killing one government soldier and wounding 16. It was the third such U.S. bombing mistake reported in two days and the fourth in two weeks near Quang Tri. A total of 31 South Vietnamese killed and 51 wounded have been reported. Field officers blame the close-quarter fighting, the often confused maneuvering of South Vietnamese units and the presence of hundreds of U.S. planes in the air while almost all ground units are calling for support.

The U.S. Command also reported one of its Cobra helicopter gunships was shot down Tuesday 14 miles southeast of Quang Tri but said the crewmen were rescued.

AFL-CIO support is being sought

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although AFL-CIO President George Meany wasn't accepting calls from the Democratic vice presidential nominee, some labor leaders held out hope today that the full effect of Meany's unhappiness with the party's presidential ticket could be averted.

The 35-man AFL-CIO executive council met to decide whether to endorse Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern and his running mate, Sen. Thomas Eagleton of Missouri.

One measure suggested by some labor leaders provided that the federation make no endorsement of a presidential candidate for the first time in its 17-year history, instead leaving it up to each of the 117 member unions to decide whether to endorse a ticket.

All Around Town

The Hempstead County Rescue Unit will hold its regular meeting Thursday, July 20, at 7:30 p.m. in the Branch Hospital training building. All members are urged to attend.

The Optimist Club will meet Thursday morning at 6:15 for their regular meeting at the Town and Country. The Texarkana Optimist Club will present the program.

A program on the Head Start children of the Hope district will be presented Friday, July 21, at 9:30 a.m. at the Beryl Henry School. The public is invited to attend the open house and visitation session.

Butler Bros., Inc., Hope, Charles Butler, president, has been elected to membership in the American Angus Association at St. Joseph, Missouri.

McGovern: Can't get away from politics on vacation

CUSTER, S.D. (AP) — Democratic presidential nominee George McGovern, 50 years old today, can't get away from politics on his South Dakota vacation. He isn't really trying to, either.

In less than two days of what had been billed as a complete rest, the South Dakota senator has made two campaign-style appearances among friendly Black Hills constituents and a visit to famed Mt. Rushmore national monument nearby, where he mingled with tourists from throughout the nation.

McGovern, wearing an open-necked shirt, an ascot and a suede outdoors jacket, had hardly stepped out of his car at Mt. Rushmore when he was confronted by newsmen with microphones, cameras and a round of questions.

He will try to confine his birthday, which Gov. Richard Kneip has proclaimed "George McGovern Day" in South Dakota, to relaxation. The only activities listed on his schedule are a horseback ride in the morning and a birthday party tonight featuring a barbecued buffalo.

Mrs. McGovern will not be on hand. Press secretary Richard Dougherty said she is undergoing some physical tests and won't arrive until Friday.

Dougherty also told reporters the two top managers for McGovern's successful drive for the nomination, Gary Hart and Frank Mankiewicz, are due at his Sylvan Lake Lodge retreat Friday. He added that a trip by McGovern on Sunday to Sioux Falls is being converted into a full day of campaigning.

After appearing on the CBS radio-TV interview program "Face the Nation," to be conducted live at station KELO, McGovern will pay visits to Mitchell, his boyhood home, and the state capitol at Pierre.

After another week of political planning here, McGovern is to return to Washington in time to start campaigning in early August. The first of his nationwide series of appearances will be in smaller towns and cities usually bypassed by presidential candidates in search of major media markets.

First, he seemed intent on securing his home state. Most observers have counted him a likely winner in South Dakota. But a Republican who introduced the senator in glowing terms Tuesday to a group of 200 persons in the little town of Hill City said he expects President Nixon to carry the state again.

However, John J. Gerken, who managed the Senate campaign of McGovern's 1968 opponent, Archie L. Gubbrud, warned Republican leaders in Washington against underestimating the Democratic nominee.

"He's one of the sharpest politicians we've seen in the country," Gerken told reporters.

McGovern sounded one of his major campaign themes, calling for "a new spirit of reconciliation across the land" and saying, "If ever there was a time we needed to build a bridge across troubled waters, it is today."

Earlier, after posing on the observation deck below the granite images of Presidents George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Abraham Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt at Mt. Rushmore, the senator signed about 100 autographs, bought a $140 silver and turquoise bracelet and got some campaign advice from a 73-year-old Oglala

Sioux Indian, Benjamin Black Elk.

"Be like a postage stamp, stick to it till you get there," advised Black Elk, a fixture at the monument known as the "fifth face on the mountain." Black Elk said the advice came from Lincoln.

The only known political phone call received at McGovern's retreat Tuesday was from Norval Reece, a top aide to Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp, suggesting an early McGovern visit to that state for a Democratic unity meeting.

While Reece apparently didn't mention it, one reason for his suggestion was Tuesday's announcement, long expected by Philadelphia Mayor Frank Rizzo, a Democrat, that he will do all he can to defeat McGovern and will support President Nixon.

Report filing set for Friday

Prosecuting Attorney Dub Arnold of Arkadelphia said today that he would file a report and statement concerning his investigation into the alleged irregularities here in the May 30 Democratic preferential primary election by Friday.

Arnold said: "I want to make my investigation a matter of public record," and stated he would file his report with the county clerk's office.

"I don't have to do this," he said, "but I feel an investigation of this nature should be made public."

The Star reported on July 6 that the absentee box was allegedly opened to check certain votes cast by residents of the Spring Hill community.

Arnold has said on two occasions that charges will be filed in the case.

Two men gunned down in Ireland

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Gunmen killed two more men in Belfast Tuesday night, but the level of fighting in Northern Ireland eased to scattered skirmishes. An IRA leader said the guerrilla command wants to "shift to using political persuasion."

The peace overture came from David O'Connell, the second in command of the Irish Republican Army's Provisional wing. He told the Dublin Evening Herald that his group had put out feelers to restore the cease-fire that collapsed 10 days ago. He said young IRA commanders in Londonderry were backing the peace moves.

One of those killed during the night was a British soldier, the 100th to die in Ulster's three years of religious warfare. A sniper cut him down at an army post in a Catholic area.

The other man to die was a factory watchman found riddled by bullets. They raised the death toll in Northern Ireland to at least 446 since August 1969, and at least 238 this year.

Harold Wilson, the leader of the British Labor party, disclosed that he had met for five hours in London with leaders of the IRA Provisionals in an attempt to get a new cease-fire. He refused to give details of the talk.

Connally wants role in policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally would like to play a leading role in international economic policy if he returns to public life in a second Nixon administration, some of his associates say.

"There's no question about it. He's fascinated by the whole area of international economics. He has definite ideas about it and would like to put his stamp on U.S. policy," said one associate.

That means, according to these sources, that Connally would probably prefer the job of secretary of state over vice president.

They say the former Texas governor is too restless and dynamic to be vice president, wanting instead to take on a more challenging task if he returns to Washington.

Although Connally has said he doesn't think he'll be offered the secretary of state post if Nixon is re-elected, he has never ruled out the possibility that he would take it if offered.

Connally developed a strong interest in international economics soon after Nixon stunned the nation by naming him treasury secretary in late 1970.

He was instrumental in the first devaluation of the dollar since 1934, spoke bluntly to U.S. allies of a new day in economic relations in which America would have to look more after its own interests, and negotiated a new system of currency exchange rates.

But Connally felt the job was unfinished, his associates said, particularly since many trade barriers to American products remained in foreign countries. And, then, there is still the uncompleted job of structuring a new world monetary system.

Connally's associates around the Treasury department say the Texas Democrat would love to tackle the bureaucracy at the State Department and put his own imprint on policy there.

They view things from this perspective: Relations between countries are expected in the future to be more economic than military, yet the State Department has failed to adapt to this reality.

Connally, in fact, bruised some feelings at the State Department when, as treasury secretary, he openly suggested that the United States was ill equipped to meet an international economic crisis such as the one that struck in 1971.

Buttressing the belief that Connally may want the State Department was his recent around-the-world trip for President Nixon. He visited 17 nations.

"The theme of the trip was economic," said one official.

Connally stressed one idea in his visit. He said the United States could no longer continue the kind of massive aid to countries that it did after World War II. It is time for other nations to recognize this reality, he said.

Black Fin finishes 1st

BAYONA, Spain (AP) — After nearly 19 days at sea, the 73-foot ketch Black Fin became the first boat to complete the 2,700-mile Bermuda-to-Bayona yacht race, crossing the finish line Tuesday morning.

Nine of the 45 other yachts in the race were expected to reach the finish by noon today.

Jones' trial is a mistrial

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The week-long income tax evasion trial of state Sen. Guy H. Jones of Conway was declared a mistrial Tuesday by U. S. District Court Judge J. Smith Henley, who said there had been an "extrajudicial presentation to members of the jury."

The judge said several of the jurors reported they had been approached by persons who had discussed the case, both affirmatively and negatively, with them.

Henley said he did not want to be secretive about the matter, but said he did not "want to make it anymore difficult than it is to try a public figure."

He released the jurors and cautioned them not to discuss the matter except under a court subpoena. He said it probably would be this fall before Jones' trial could be rescheduled.

Henley said later his admonition to the jury did not necessarily mean he expected an investigation of the "extrajudicial presentation," which Henley did not describe.

Jones is charged with evading income taxes and filing false tax returns for 1965 and 1966.

Neither the government nor the defense had moved for the mistrial. Henley said the unauthorized contact of jurors came to his attention and he decided to end the trial.

"I thought I ought to mistry it and so I did," Henley said.

Board is criticized

SEARCY, Ark. (AP) — The Griffithville School Board was told Tuesday by the Arkansas Education Association that some of the board's questions to the AEA implied that the board had knowledge of law-breaking and may be "guilty of at least nonfeasance."

The board had asked the AEA, in an earlier letter objecting to a planned AEA investigation of the Griffithville school situation, to investigate whether prior school board members had violated the law in selling products to the school, had been derelict in their duty in requiring the proper petitions before hiring their relatives and had taken food from the school lunch room.

"In effect, your request implies that you have factual information concerning such violations which you have not reported to the proper authorities," the AEA replied Tuesday. "If this is true, then each of you and all of you together are guilty of at least nonfeasance in the assumption of your responsibility as school board members."

The board had asked why the AEA was "conducting an investigation in the community while openly financing a legal action against the school district before the legal rights of the parties can be determined in a court of competent jurisdiction."

U.S. seeking exchanges with China

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is looking for an exchange of young Americans with what Secretary of State William P. Rogers calls "the new generation of Chinese leaders."

Rogers, speaking about the growing U.S. relationship with Peking, told the San Francisco Commonwealth Club Wednesday that two major aspects are the exchange of persons and the increase in trade contacts which are now being discussed with Chinese representatives in Paris.

"We believe that the new generation of Chinese leaders should not be totally deprived of the first hand knowledge of America and Americans that the present generation has lacked—and vice versa," Rogers said.

State Department officials say there is no expectation here that Chairman Mao Tse-tung or even Premier Chou En-lai would come to the United States as long as American diplomatic ties are maintained with Taiwan. Chinese leaders are emphasizing people-to-people contacts that avoid the complications of official visits such as President Nixon's recent trip to Peking.

American scholars of China, including Harvard historian John K. Fairbank and law professor Jerome Cohen, have suggested that China send its students and scholars to the United States so that the next generation will have a better idea of this country than the present Chinese leadership.

Promotions made at First National Bank

Thomas E. Hays Jr., president of the First National Bank of Hope, has announced the promotion of two employees.

Both Mrs. Glenn Calhoun Jr. and Mrs. Don D. Hughes were named assistant cashier by the board of directors on July 10.

Mrs. Calhoun was graduated from Hope High School in 1961 and attended Draughtons Business School in Little Rock. She began her banking career in 1962 when she joined the First National Bank in the bookkeeping department. In the 10 years she has been with the bank she has worked in all of the departments of the bank and is presently serving as head of the commercial note department.

Mrs. Hughes attended school in Texarkana, and began her banking career in 1953. Prior to coming to the First National Bank, Mrs. Hughes worked in banks in Texarkana, Dallas and Little Rock. During her banking career she has completed several banking courses in the American Institute of Banking.

Mrs. Hughes joined the First National Bank in 1967 and has worked in all of the departments of the bank and is presently serving as head of the installment note department.

Television and Radio

During Cynthia Lowry's vacation, the column is being written by invited guests, each of whom was asked to respond to specific questions about some special area of television. Here is a defense of the daytime serial—or soap opera—by the peppery dean of serial writers, a woman who has created 13 network serials, five of which are still on the channels of two networks. She is presently in charge of the lives of the characters of "As the World Turns" as head writer of a 16-year-old series that was one of her brain-children.

By IRNA PHILLIPS

Q. The daytime serials seem to have no staunch defenders except their day-in, day-out viewers and even the networks do not often give them the dignity and exploitation accorded the nighttime shows. Why?

A. Many of the dedicated writers and actors who have worked in daytime radio and television are at a loss to understand how any network can ignore the 25 million viewers a week who view daytime.

Hollywood writers and actors alike are out of work—no drama—and what are their agents doing about it? Pawning them off on daytime. How much money have the networks lost on these prime-time series? And who in truth pays for the losses? Daytime, the breadwinner of the networks.

Q. The real "star" of a daytime serial is likely to be the story it is telling. But why do not the actors, even the leads, get the kind of star billing given the nighttime performers?

A. The TV daytime serial for the most part creates its own stars, many of whom find their way to Broadway and Hollywood. A network ignores a Henderson Forsythe who has appeared in a number of Albee plays, and Pinter's as well. Every daytime viewer knows the name "Stu Bergman" in "Search for Tomorrow." He is playing in a Broadway production which received a Tony Award.

Don Ameche, Mark Rydell, MacDonald Carey, Jeff Baker (one of the "hottest" directors in Hollywood)—one could go on and on with a list of actors, stars if you will, who were trained in a vehicle that is more demanding than any other form of drama.

Miss Martha Mosley, bride-elect of Mickey Allen, was feted with a gift tea on Friday, July 14 at the Heritage House. Hostesses were Mrs. Olaf Reeves, Mrs. Forrest Singleton, Mrs. Jimmy Arnold, Mrs. Jimmy Miller and Mrs. A.J. Reynolds.

Wearing a multi-colored printed crepe dress, Miss Mosley was given a white carnation corsage. Similar flowers were presented to the mothers of the engaged couple, Mrs. William R. Mosley and Mrs. D.E. Allen.

After the guests were greeted by Mrs. Reeves and introduced to the honored guest, they were invited into the dining room. The table was covered with a white cutwork cloth and centered with a pink arrangement in silver. Mrs. Miller poured pink punch, and Miss Karen Allen, sister of the groom-elect, and Miss Kitty Reeves served frozen dessert to 50 guests.

Mrs. Joe Carroll of Little Rock, sister of the bride-elect, presided at the bride's book. The honoree received many lovely gifts which were attractively displayed at the entertainment.

Bridge winners

The Hope Duplicate Bridge Club had six tables of players at a meeting on Monday, July 17 in the home of Dr. and Mrs. Lynn Harris. Mrs. Harry Hawthorne and Mrs. Comer Boyett topped the players with first place in the scoring.

Mrs. E.P. Young, Jr. and Mrs. R.L. Broach were in second place, and visiting players from New Boston, Tex., Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Cross, were third. Another player from out of town was Miss Kay Tallant of Little Rock.

HELEN HELP US!

—by Helen Bottel—

Those Female Words Again

Dear Helen:
I too enjoyed the column about "male linguistic chauvinism" and could add a few more to this his'n herstory. (How about when a woman falls down a man hole?)

But today my beef concerns double standard labels. Why shouldn't "promiscuous" also be "promiscuous"? When a woman gets around, she's called loose, trampy, etc., but whoever heard of a "fallen" or promiscuous man? Oh, no—he's admired as a guy the girls can't resist.

A man I knew in the Army overseas shackled up with half a dozen women, then told his wife to get lost when some busybody informed him she had one brief affair.

If men can gather their rosebuds where they may, why do women get the blame? —FOR EQUALITY

Dear F.E.:
Because the double standard is still alive and well in middle-class America: when a little "rosebud" turns up in too many bouquets, she's labeled "skunk cabbage," often by the man who picked her first...and almost always by women who fear their husbands will be next.

But times are changing. These days a womanizer is beginning to get more laughs than admiration; and a female pushover, more pity than ostracism (unless she's after YOUR husband). Perhaps when women demand full equality, the "single standard" may make a few promiscuous spouses think twice. —H.

Dear Helen:
I'm not one to let little things bother me, so when the open-knitted, nothing-underneath dress was described by one of your readers, I let it pass.

Then I saw one at the club and let me tell you, I was shocked. The dame was a looker, and so was everyone else!

It was the first time in my life I felt like doing a little nipping! —BACHELOR

Dear Bach:
...Spelled with a "k", naturally? —H.

Dear Helen:

Some doctors say women stay romantic even after the age of 80. What this group of men wants to know is: why didn't it happen to our wives?

They're all about 50, and they've decided to "put aside young things." So they spend their time at club meetings, wear their dresses below the knee, won't have anything to do with sports or any other of their husbands' activities, and their war cry is, "I'm too tired."

Their husbands have to make all the advances, and even then they get put off. But when we men let our eyes wander to other women, you should hear the old "I gave you the best years of my life!" line.

They forget that a man is human and needs to know he's loved. Where did the romance go after 50? Come to think of it, my wife stopped being romantic soon after the honeymoon. Did I pick a lemon or are they mostly all like that, as my male friends tell me? —LOST OUT HUSBAND

Dear LOH:
No, wives aren't mostly all like that. But, according to Masters and Johnson, about 50 per cent of married people (not necessarily married to each other) feel their sex lives are inadequate...and this isn't just in the over-50 group!

A marriage counselor might help, though you should have consulted him years ago. —H.

Hope couple plans August wedding

Mr. and Mrs. Orval Taylor announce the engagement of their daughter, Rita Jane to Terry Dwain Turner, son of Mr. and Mrs. A.Z. Turner.

Miss Taylor is a 1971 graduate of Hope High School and attended State College of Arkansas and pledged Sigma Kappa Sorority. Mr. Turner is a 1969 graduate of Hope High School and attended Texarkana Jr. College. He is now employed with Turner Brothers, Inc.

The wedding will be an event of August 18th at the First Baptist Church.

GOP leaders call for enforcement of laws in Miami

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Expressing concern about reports of public pot smoking and skinny dipping by demonstrators, during the Democratic National Convention, local Republican leaders have called for strict enforcement of laws when the GOP conclave opens in Miami Beach next month.

Robert Rosasco, Dade County Republican chairman, said Monday the party's Miami attorneys have been instructed to take whatever action is necessary to assure that no special treatment is afforded convention protesters.

"Our position is that everyone, delegate and nondelegate, be treated equally under the law," Rosasco said. "During the Democratic convention, there was only lip service given to this equal treatment concept."

Particularly distressing, said the GOP chairman, were reports that some of the 1,500 youthful demonstrators who camped out last week at Miami Beach's Flamingo Park were permitted to smoke marijuana and swim nude in the park swimming pool.

Rosasco said the party's attorneys are considering a legal move to block protesters from using the 36-acre fenced park during the Republican convention, which convenes Aug. 21.

"Letting them assemble there gives them added opportunity to plan and organize. If they are kept dispersed, they won't be such a threat," he said.

Protest leaders have said they will again seek camping space for nondelegates next month. City Manager Clifford O'Key said last week that while he has made no commitment for the Republican meeting, he was generally satisfied with the conduct of demonstrators during the Democratic convention.

Spice is the life of Meat Loaf

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Meat loaf is a favorite of millions as a main dish or filling for a sandwich. However, the tendency is to create one's own recipe or inherit a meat loaf recipe and never vary the ingredients. Herbs and spices do much to "beef" up the flavor of this popular dish. Next time, when mixing a loaf, try dehydrated onion and garlic products, chili powder, curry powder, Italian seasoning, poultry seasoning or a meat loaf seasoning. Use some of these in combination or singly. Also, don't forget that sweet spices add intriguing tastes, too. Some spices to try individually are ground allspice, cumin, ginger, cinnamon, cloves, cardamom, nutmeg or mace, caraway or fennel.

NUTMEG MEAT LOAF RING

2 pounds ground lean beef
1 cup soft bread crumbs
1 cup (8-oz.) tomato sauce
2 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
2 eggs, beaten
2 teaspoons onion powder
1 1/2 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon ground nutmeg
1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
In a large mixing bowl

Nutmeg meat loaf flavor shows how varying seasonings pep up food.

combine all ingredients. Mix well, but do not overmix. Turn into a 4 1/2-cup ring mold. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 45 to 50 minutes. Remove from oven:

let meat loaf cool in pan 10 minutes. Turn out onto serving plate. Fill center with cooked peas and carrots, if desired. Makes 8 portions.

All-Star pitchers named

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Manager Danny Murtaugh of the National League All-Star team has named nine pitchers to next Tuesday's game, including Steve Blass, who pitched Murtaugh's Pittsburgh Pirates to victory in the seventh game of last year's World Series.

Besides Blass, who has a 10-3 record this year, Murtaugh named league percentage leader Gary Nolan of Cincinnati and major league strikeout leader Steve Carlton of Philadelphia among seven righthanders and two left-handers on the staff for the game in Atlanta.

One pitcher who didn't get named was Ferguson Jenkins of Chicago, last year's Cy Young Award winner and a 12-game winner this year.

The other six pitchers on the team are right-handers Tom Seaver of New York, Bill Stoneman of Montreal, Don Sutton of Los Angeles, Clay Carroll of Cincinnati and Bob Gibson of St. Louis and left-hander Tug McGraw of New York.

Palmer prepares for Classic

By BOB GREEN

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — It will be Arnold Palmer vs. the Young Lions when the new look, $150,000 American Golf Classic gets underway Thursday on the vast and sprawling Firestone Country Club course.

With the exception of the 42-year-old Palmer, most of the game's great stars are taking time off to recuperate from the pressure-cooker finish of last week's British Open.

Among the missing, most of whom still are in Europe, are Lee Trevino, the Super Mex who won a second consecutive British Open title; Jack Nicklaus, the man he beat by a single stroke; England's Tony Jacklin, the third-place finisher; fourth-place Doug Sanders; Gary Player of South Africa and veteran Billy Casper.

His absences put Palmer, a non-winner this season but often a threat, in a dominant position on the 7,180-yard, par 70 Firestone layout, a course that Trevino says is just too long for him but one that Palmer plays exceptionally well.

He's a two-time champion here and has finished 10th or better nine of the 11 times he's played.

He heads a field that is made up of 144 players for the first time. Previously this had been an invitational event with the field restricted to about 100 players, often fewer. This year it has gone to an open classification—local newspapers have criticized the move as making it "just another tournament"—and a full field made eligible.

Among the major challengers for the $30,000 first prize is a quartet of youngsters headed by defending titleholder Jerry Heard, a 25-year-old who has won twice this season and collected more than $100,000. The others are Johnny Miller, just back from the British Open, Hawaiian Open titleholder Grjer Jones and rookie Lanny Wadkins.

Tom Weiskopf, from nearby Columbus, Ohio and a $100,000 winner this season, could be the major threat. His long, hard-hitting game is well suited to the course that is one of the longest the pros play all season.

Also on hand are $100,000 winners George Archer and Australian Bruce Crampton.

Davis Cup team finishes workout

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The United States Davis Cup tennis team, heavily favored to defeat Chile in the American Zone final which begins Friday, has finished its serious work-outs and plans to take it easy till the matches start.

Wimbledon singles champion Stan Smith and 24-year-old Erik Van Dillen, who'll probably be the U.S. pair for the doubles match against Chile, practiced Tuesday against Tom Gorman and reserve Brian Gottfried at the Stade Francais Country Club Tuesday morning.

The fourth regular member of the squad, 19-year-old Harold Solomon, practiced against reserve Edward Dibbs in singles play.

"We're going to have a medium practice Wednesday and a real light practice Thursday," team captain Dennis Ralston said.

For Chile, international veteran Jaime Pinto, 32, is expected to compete in the No. 1 singles spot, with the other opening going to either Jaime Fillol or Patricio Cornejo.

Pinto has played against Smith three times. All the matches were on fast surfaces, and all were won by Smith. Pinto is hoping the slower clay surface here will lessen the advantage of Smith's big serve and volley game.

Lewis vows to 'finish' Ali

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, keeping his normal pre-fight blarney under wraps, says he expects tonight's heavyweight bout against Al "Blue" Lewis to be a tough one.

"I'm not taking Al Lewis cheaply," Ali said. "This boy is big and strong, make no mistake about that."

Ali was still trying to shake off a heavy cold which forced him to cut short his final preparation.

Lewis, of Detroit, vowed he was "going to finish Ali."

"I'm as big as he is," said Lewis. "I'm stronger than he is, and I'm fast too. He had better not drop his hands and start fooling with me."

ing Arlin a razor blade and pointing to his own throat, "make it quick."

Arlin pitched 8 2-3 innings of no-hit baseball Tuesday night before giving up two hits in the ninth inning. The Padres beat Philadelphia 5-1 but the loss of the no-hitter was a letdown for the 26-year-old pitcher, his manager and teammates.

Phillies' infielder Denny Doyle stroked a single over the head of third baseman Dave

In other National League games, San Francisco blanked Montreal 3-0, Houston thumped St. Louis 11-3, Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 4-2, Chicago edged Cincinnati 2-1 and Los Angeles trimmed New York 2-1.

Roberts to break up Arlin's bid. The pitcher was unnerved and balked, then gave up another hit to Tom Hutton, which scored a run.

"I messed it up," said Zimmer. "I had Roberts playing in. If he plays back, he fields the ball. I messed it up."

In the American League, it was Baltimore 2, Texas 1 in 15 innings; Detroit 4, Chicago 3 in 11; New York 6, Minnesota 0; Boston 4, California 1. Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Cleveland, 6-5 and 11-8. Oakland won the first game of their pair with Milwaukee 4-0 but the Brewers won the nightcap 7-4.

Arlin got plenty of offensive help from Nate Colbert, who drove in three runs with a double and his 21st homer of the season. He also got an outstanding defensive play from second baseman Derrell Thomas, who stopped Doyle's grounder in the hole in the sixth and threw to first while sitting on the ground.

San Francisco left hander Ron Bryant's four-hit pitching gave him his fifth straight victory and brought his record to 8-4. He struck out four Montreal players and walked just two. Rookie Garry Maddox backed Bryant with a two-run homer, his seventh of the season. The Giants' final run came when, with a man on third, Expo starter and loser Balor Moore, 1-4, balked.

Cesar Cedeno and Lee May each drove home two runs with homers and Jim Wynn added a pair with a double for Houston. Ted Simmons' three-run double had given St. Louis a 3-2 lead before Cedeno laced his inside-the-park circuit. Two infield errors and a passed ball helped the Astros rally for four runs in the eighth.

Atlanta used a Ralph Garr double, an error and an infield out to come from behind Pittsburgh. The Braves increased their margin to 4-1 in the seventh on Earl Williams' 14th homer and the Pirates added a run on two singles and a sacrifice fly by Al Oliver.

Billy Williams stroked his 21st homer to give the Chicago Cubs the winning run in their 10-inning battle with Cincinnati. Ferguson Jenkins gave up Tony Perez' 15th homer and was in trouble often but managed to record his 12th victory. Ron Santo drove home the Cubs' first run in the sixth with a sacrifice fly.

Frank Robinson ended a 10-inning battle in Los Angeles with his 11th homer. The All-Star outfielder's blast came with two outs and landed in the left-field bullpen. New York scored an unearned run in the first and the Dodgers came back in the fourth with an unearned run of their own to send the game into a deadlock.

Travs lose to Amarillo

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas Travelers dropped nine games behind division-leading Alexandria Tuesday night after losing 6-5 to Amarillo.

The Giants evened the series at two games apiece. The two teams face each other again tonight for the final game of the five-game set.

The Travelers also lost right fielder Tommy Cruz for the season. He suffered a dislocated right elbow and a possible bone chip in a collision with second baseman Tommy Heinzelman in the fourth inning. Cruz underwent surgery Tuesday night.

In other Texas League action, Alexandria whipped El Paso 5-2, Midland nipped Shreveport 8-7.

Royals sweep double

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Lou Piniella lashed a home run and five other hits to lead the Kansas City Royals to a 6-5 and 11-8 doubleheader sweep of the Cleveland Indians Tuesday night.

Piniella had four hits, including two doubles, in the opener and drove in the tie-breaking, winning run in the eighth inning. He cracked his ninth home run and a single in the nightcap. He drove in five runs and scored two others.

The Royals, after spotting the Indians three first-inning runs in the second game, scored twice in the second and exploded for seven more in the third.

The big inning came on singles by Cookie Rojas and Bobby Knoop, a sacrifice fly by reliever Jim Rooker, 5-6, a wild pitch, a single by Amos Otis, John Mayberry's double, an intentional walk to Piniella, Ed Kirkpatrick's single and Rojas' double.

The Indians unloaded on Bruce Dal Canton quickly. Del Unser beat out a leadoff bunt, John Brohamer singled and Tom McCraw walked to load the bases. After a force out at the plate, Chris Chambliss' single scored Brohamer and McCraw. John Lowenstein's single sent Graig Nettles home.

Lowenstein drove in two Cleveland runs with a single in the sixth and Nettles' single added another run in the seventh. Singles by Ray Fosse and Buddy Bell and an error produced a run in the eighth.

Richie Scheinblum drew a walk off Denny Riddleberger, 1-2, to open the Royals' eighth in the first game. Steve Hovley, who ran for Scheinblum, moved to third on Mayberry's single. Piniella's double drove in Hovley.

Referring to the agreement made by Hockey Canada with the National Hockey League whereby only players under contract to the NHL for the 1972-73 season could play on the team, Dawson said if the board of directors could get together "we could change that decision in no time."

Douglas Fisher, chairman of Hockey Canada's executive committee, said earlier Tuesday in Toronto a meeting of the board will be held to review Hull's eligibility.

Hull, who left the NHL to join the rival World Hockey Association, is barred from playing on the team by the rule that says all players must have signed NHL contracts before the Team Canada training camp opens Aug. 13.

Dawson told a news conference that "at no time at any meeting that I attended, was this discussed." He said later he had missed one board meeting but a check revealed the agreement was not discussed.

"That agreement was an exclusive deal with the NHL. It was the steering committee that made that deal with Mr. Campbell (NHL President Clarence Campbell) and the NHL."

"But as far as I know the board of directors have never approved such a rule."

Dawson was speaking at a news conference called by Hockey Canada at which Al Scott, vice president of the executive committee, explained the ticket draw and fielded questions on the Hull situation.

"No one foresaw the situation we're now in," Scott said. "It may not just be an isolated thing either. It may not just be Bobby Hull by the time camp opens ... there could be others."

"The people don't want the NHL dictating to us," Dawson added.

Duane Thomas makes peace with Cowboys

THOUSAND OAKS, Calif. (AP) — A composed Duane Thomas, hinting at a new relationship with both pro football and the press, has made his peace—at least for the moment—with the Dallas Cowboys. The talented but unpredictable running back made his second appearance of the year at the Cowboys' training camp here Tuesday night.

After talking in private for nearly three hours, Thomas and Coach Tom Landry emerged to tell reporters that the player would take his physical exam and begin workouts today.

Thomas, smiling and apparently relaxed during a brief news conference, wouldn't say why he walked out of camp last Wednesday night, referring only to "personal reasons."

Asked if he was happy with the Cowboys, he answered, "If I wasn't happy I wouldn't have come here."

Reminded of his statements last year criticizing Landry and the team's front office, Thomas said, "You're talking about the past. I gave you something else to go on." He also said he would end his much-publicized silence and talk about football to reporters this year "if I have time."

Elsewhere, Los Angeles Rams quarterback Roman Gabriel was reported making satisfactory recovery from the lung collapse he suffered Monday.

Dr. Jules Rasinski of the Rams said the tube inserted to inflate the lung would be removed Thursday and that Gabriel could return to full action three weeks after that.

Another player, wide receiver Billy Parks of the San Diego Chargers, has chosen somewhat less orthodox means of treatment for his injury. Parks has been receiving Chinese acupuncture treatments on his ailing hamstring muscle.

Parks, 24, reported to the Chargers training camp Sunday but left after one hour, saying "I don't want to be just standing around while the other guys are working their butts off."

Chargers Coach Harland Sware responded by levying a $150-a-day fine, but Parks said he planned to stay away from camp the rest of the week, which would bring the fine to $1,050.

A number of other prominent players remain out of camp.

New York Jets wide receiver Don Maynard, who has gained more pass-catching yardage than any other player in history, has still not reported to the Jets

Avery Brundage: Playing in Olympics is a privilege, not a right

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (AP) — "Nobody has a right to get into the Olympics," Avery Brundage said, leaning back in his red leather swivel chair and letting his eyes gaze out over the Pacific. "It's not a right—it's a privilege."

"The Olympics are not just a competition to see who can run the fastest or throw the farthest. They're not a world championship. They're unique. They're an ideal. They can't be changed by anybody."

At 84, scarred by a thousand battles and preparing after 20 years to step out as president of the International Olympic Committee, the crusty Chicago millionaire is still unbendable in his defense of the purity of sports and the sacredness of the unsoiled amateur.

"There are two kinds of competitors," he added, "those who are interested in sports for sports' sake and the ones interested for financial reasons. Why should the pros want a medal? Let them hold their own world championship if they wish. The Olympics will always remain amateur."

Years of vilification have stiffened rather than softened this crochety, controversial Colossus of Olympic idealism. Painted as a tyrant, an unrealistic old man still living in the Middle Ages, he has been pilloried in a dozen languages.

"My legacy is a clear conscience and a thick skin," Brundage said in a recent interview.

He was sitting in a sparsely furnished first-floor office of the Montecito Country Club, one of the few properties he has retained.

Brundage lives alone in a newly-constructed penthouse atop the club. His wife, Elizabeth, died a year ago. They had no children. The penthouse is barren, not fully decorated, with Avery's papers and Olympic effects strewn all over the place.

other Oriental art treasures, were empty.

Over the years, Brundage amassed one of the world's biggest collections of Chinese art. He gave the entire collection—valued at between $30 million and $40 million—to San Francisco, which placed it in a special museum at Golden State Park.

About six times a year the bustling, globe-girdling Olympic boss sneaks away to this quiet, pleasant resort—once the playground of millionaires—to get his breath and stoke up for new wars to fight.

His U.S. headquarters is atop Chicago's LaSalle Hotel, which he recently sold for $10 million. There he maintains two shifts of secretaries, one reporting at 9 p.m., to handle his voluminous correspondence.

He also has an office in Lausanne, Switzerland, the IOC base, but much of his work is done in the first-class lounge of trans-continental 747s. He is constantly on the move, averaging three trips around the world a year.

"I can only sleep three hours at a time," Brundage said. "Some of my best work is done in the middle of the night. I usually go to bed at around 1 a.m. and I'm up at 7."

For a man 20 years beyond the normal retirement age, Brundage is a remarkable figure. Straight as a poker, he walks with a brisk step. He seems to have an inexhaustible source of energy and vitality. He expressed his viewpoints in strong, ringing tones.

A six-footer, balding, with horn-rimmed glasses perched on a bulbous nose, he has a thick, 17-inch neck, powerful shoulders and hands that reflect the days when he pushed a wheel barrow and mixed concrete.

He has retained the athletic build of younger days when he was America's best all-around athlete and a frustrated home-dad in the decathlon and pen-

Letters To The Editor

This is your newspaper. Write to it. Address letters to: Editor The Star, P.O. Box 648, Hope, Ark. 71601.

All letters must be signed, with address so you are identified to the newspaper staff, but if the character of the letter permits we will allow use of a pen-name in the publication, in which case you should add "Citizen," or some other word below your real name and address.

Pen-names are permitted when a letter deals only with issues. Direct attacks upon public officials, however, must bear the writer's name for publication.

SWEET HOME THANKS
Editor The Star: On behalf of the people of the Sweet Home Community, we wish to take this method of expressing our thanks and heartfelt gratitude to you for the publicity you gave in the Star for the Hempstead County Singing Convention which was held Saturday night, July 15, and Sunday afternoon, July 16. Also, we want to thank Radio Station KXAR and everyone who had a part in the convention. Especially do we want to thank Harold Duke and his staff for the part they played in making the Convention the success it was.

After a hot and close election held at the Sunday afternoon session for the officers of the Convention for the ensuing year, Judge Finis Odom emerged as the winner for the office of President of the Convention.

We are very sorry that the managing editor of the Star did not see fit to accept the invitation that was extended to him to attend the Convention to make a report of same in the Hope Star. At least 50 per cent of the people of the Sweet Home Community are subscribers of the Star.

With warm and kind personal regards to you and each member of your staff, I am sincerely yours, tathlon events in the 1912 Olympics at Stockholm.

"The all-around was a category at the time," he explained. "It was 10 events in one day with a five-minute rest in between. Sometimes you were on the field as long as seven hours."

"It was tough, requiring endurance. I wasn't exceptional in any particular sport but was fair in all of them and I had endurance. I worked 10 hours a day on my job and trained at night and on Saturdays and Sundays."

"I thought I was going to break every record at once."

"The coach told me I was working too hard. He was right. When I got to the Olympics, I was stale."

Brundage, born in Detroit, moved to Chicago at the age of six after his mother and father had separated. He was reared by aunts and uncles. He studied engineering at the University of Illinois, and upon graduation, became a construction superintendent, building skyscrapers before starting a business of his own.

His fortune escalated. He prospered in real estate, hotel ownership and investments, lost almost everything in the 1929 stock market crash but rebuilt during the depression by buying stock in depressed companies at a few cents on the dollar.

He succeeded Gen. Douglas MacArthur as president of the U.S. Olympic Committee in 1928 and in 1952 became head of the IOC. Throughout, he has remained a staunch defender of the ideals of Baron de Coubertin, who established the Modern Olympics in 1896.

Two killed in crash

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. (AP) — A Marine Corps attack jet plane crashed while simulating nose air support missions during a training exercise. The plane's two crewmen were killed, six Marine reservists taking part in the exercise on the ground were injured.

The jet was one of two making practice runs above a dry lake bed Tuesday while some of the 3,000 reservists on summer active duty watched, a spokesman said. No other details were immediately available.

Identities were withheld while relatives of the dead and injured were being informed.

The plane was an A-1A Intruder based at Attack Squadron 242, Marine Corps Air Station, El Toro, the airport President Nixon uses for his arrivals and departures while at the Western White House.

Officials said the crash was under investigation.

Secret meeting in Paris

WASHINGTON (AP) — Presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger was out of sight today, but not out of mind.

There was widespread speculation that he had gone to Paris for secret negotiations with the North Vietnamese on the Vietnam war.

Kissinger did not return to Washington with President Nixon on the Western White House at San Clemente, Calif., Tuesday, and spokesmen declined to say where he was.

"All I can tell you is he flew back to Washington Monday with his children. I have no comment on where Henry Kissinger is, period," said press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler.

opponents wish he would go back to his native Panama.

Austin led the Amarillo Giants to a 6-5 Texas League victory over Arkansas with a two-run triple and two runs scored, both of them on singles by teammate Glen Stutzel. Frank Riccelli picked up his ninth victory in 15 decisions for Amarillo although he and reliever Hal Jeffcoat allowed Arkansas four runs in the last four innings.

In other games, Alexandria whipped El Paso 5-2, Midland edged Shreveport 8-7 and Memphis and San Antonio split a doubleheader, Memphis winning the opener 6-5 in 10 innings and San Antonio taking the nightcap 5-1.

Dave Freisleben pitched his ninth complete game of the season for Alexandria despite giving up two runs in the seventh inning, as the East Division pacesetters beat the West-leading El Paso Sun Dodgers. It was Freisleben's 11th victory against five losses, and he was backed by Mike Ivie's three hits and two RBIs.

Winning pitcher Tom Badcock singled home the deciding run in the seventh inning of the Midland-Shreveport contest that saw 22 hits, with the victorious Midland Cubs picking up 11. There also were eight errors, five by Shreveport. Rob Spearling and Jim Tyrone hit first-inning home runs for Midland.

Memphis' Jackie Adams bounced a single off the glove of San Antonio third baseman Tom Bianco to score Joe Nolen from third base in the bottom of the 10th inning for the Blues' first-game triumph over San Antonio. The Brewers came back in the second game behind Gary Leinheiser's five-hit pitching.

Tonight's games match the same teams at Memphis, Arkansas, Alexandria and Shreveport.

FRED MYERS

Investigator is guest speaker

Fred Myers, president and general manager of Myers & Associates Investigative Services of Little Rock, was the guest speaker at Tuesday's Kiwanis Club meeting. He was introduced by Kiwanian Larry Patterson.

For several years before entering the private investigators field Myers was in law enforcement in one way or another, much of it in police work in Alaska.

One who watches the TV private eye shows gets a warped view of the profession, though Myers admits to handling some cases similar to some of those of Mannix or Cannon. "However," he says, "they are seldom so dramatic, and one certainly doesn't get a true picture of the day to day experiences of a private investigator from TV."

There are 152 licensed private investigators in Arkansas today, he said, the requirements for licensing are few: One must be 21 years of age, must have no felony convictions, must submit to a background check as to his character, and he must pay a fee of $75.

The Arkansas Private Investigators Association, organized only a short time ago, seeks to change the image of their profession, Myers said. The first objective of the association is to draft and adopt a Code of Ethics to which all members must subscribe. The second objective is to present to the next legislature for adoption a law which strengthens the licensing of private investigators, setting up standards of training and experience as well as creating a Licensing Board before which a prospective private investigator must appear and win approval.

Mrs. Phil Manus gave a progress report on the School of Hope and its building project. Joe Riddle, Kiwanian of Fort Smith, was the only guest.

Police put on standby alert

UPPER MARLBORO, Md. (AP) — Police and state troopers were put on standby alert after an inmate rebellion erupted again early today at Prince Georges County Jail following a disturbance Tuesday night in which three guards were taken hostage and then released.

The outbreaks were the third since Saturday at a Maryland penal institution.

Inmates became involved in the disturbance about 2:30 a.m. but no outside forces were called in, county police said. The inmates returned to their cells about an hour later.

Officials said there was some damage, but no injuries were reported.

Officials earlier blamed hot, muggy weather and previous prison disturbances in the state for the Tuesday night uprising, which ended when inmates released their hostages unharmed some 3½ hours after taking over the second floor of the 100-prisoner facility.

Arthur H. Bremer, 21, who is awaiting a July 31 trial on charges stemming from the assassination attempt on Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace, was confined in a first-floor annex cell and was not involved in any of the trouble, officials said.

"It's a cyclical thing. You get one, you generally get more," Lt. Col. John W. Rhoads, assistant county police chief, said in response to questions about connections between the jail disturbance and earlier rioting at two state prisons.

Far-fetched idea may become reality

By LINDA RUBEY

NEW YORK (AP)—Will you someday be heating your home with oil from the Soviet Union? Or driving your car with gasoline from Western Siberia?

It is not so far fetched as it first appears.

For Tuesday the U.S.-owned Occidental Petroleum Corp. of Los Angeles announced a five-year technical cooperation agreement with the Soviet Union. Experts in London said the most important part of the agreement was likely to be technical and financial assistance by Occidental in return for supplies of Soviet crude oil and natural gas.

These experts said the oil deal raises the prospect of Soviet oil and gas eventually flowing to the United States.

The potential American usage of Soviet oil is still in the future, but it underscores the burgeoning American dependence on foreign oil. Petroleum industry leaders attribute the dependence on a growing energy crisis here and the shortage of domestic reserves. Not only is the dependence pushing prices up, they say, it isn't likely to ease until new energy sources are developed.

It is estimated that foreign oil accounts for more than a fourth of U.S. consumption. Foreign nations with the world's biggest reserves want more control, and American oilmen say there's no way out of the dilemma in the next decade.

"There's no way we can avoid a dramatic increase in our dependence on imported oil in the next 15 years," said E.B. Walker, executive vice president of Gulf Oil Corp. "We don't have enough domestic oil and gas to meet our growing needs and it's going to take a lot of money and a lot of time to develop synthetic fuels."

Frank N. Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, predicts that dependence could leap to more than 50 per cent by 1985.

Industry sources say the United States doesn't have enough oil or gas to meet its rapidly expanding energy requirements. U.S. oil production has peaked in recent years, environmentalists are holding up offshore drilling projects, and domestic reserves are insufficient for the country's needs, they say.

Right now the United States imports most of its oil from Canada and Venezuela. But those areas lack the capacity to expand production sufficiently for American needs. So the United States will be forced to rely increasingly on the Middle East and Africa, which have about two-thirds of the world's oil reserves. The United States had about 10.6 per cent of the world's oil reserves in 1961 but now has only 6.4 per cent of the world total, including the Prudhoe Bay Alaskan oil which is tied up in the courts.

'Assassination' of character, Sinatra says

WASHINGTON (AP) — An angry Frank Sinatra accused the House Select Crime Committee of character assassination as the panel prepared today to hear from New England gangster Raymond Patriarca about Mafia ties to a racetrack.

Committee investigators said they did not know whether Patriarca would answer questions on his alleged interests in the now-defunct Berkshire Downs Racetrack near Hancock, Mass. or stand on the Fifth Amendment.

Patriarca, who was transported from federal prison to testify, is serving a ten-year sentence in Atlanta, Ga., for murder conspiracy. He was identified by the Justice Department in 1969 as boss of the New England La Cosa Nostra family.

Sinatra told the committee Tuesday he invested $55,000 in the track in August, 1962 and never knew who his other investors were.

The retired singer and his lawyer said they had no hint gangster money was in the track. Sinatra said he pulled out after he was elected a track vice president and director without notice.

"I didn't know it until I read it on the sports pages," he testified.

Sinatra denied any knowledge of the alleged Berkshire Downs La Cosa Nostra money with confident, short answers after stalking into the crowded House hearing room and accusing the committee of irresponsibly listening to charges of another alleged tie with racketeers.

He said the committee should have immediately and publicly refuted testimony by Joseph (The Baron) Barboza that Sinatra fronted for Patriarca and other La Cosa Nostra money in the Fontainebleau hotel in Miami Beach and Sands Hotels in Las Vegas.

"This bum went running off at the mouth and I resent it and I won't have it," Sinatra, told the congressmen. "I'm not a second class citizen. Let's make that clear."

Undersecretary dies in hospital

WASHINGTON (AP) — Undersecretary of the Interior William T. Pecora died today at the George Washington University Hospital. He was 59.

Pecora, the No. 2 man in the department, was Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton's chief assistant and acting secretary in the latter's absence.

Pecora had undergone surgery for diverticulitis—an intestinal disorder—on June 28. But post-operative complications developed that required additional surgery.

Morton said in a statement that his department and the nation have lost "a singularly talented and energetic scientist and administrator."

"Few men," Morton said, "possessed the leadership qualities which Dr. Pecora showed in the quest for balance and harmony in resource development and conservation."

President Nixon nominated Pecora as undersecretary on April 20, 1971. He was confirmed for the post by the Senate the following month.

Surgery performed on Wallace

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) Gov. George C. Wallace underwent surgery today at University Hospital to improve the drainage of an abscess in his abdomen.

"All went well," a physician said.

There were no complications, he said, during the 55-minute operation, and Wallace returned to his room in a rehabilitation center.

The surgery was a continuation of treatment begun by the governor's doctors in Maryland.

Park estimates $1 million over

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Memphis Commercial Appeal reported today that land costs for the proposed Village Creek State Park in eastern Arkansas will be about $1 million over initial estimates.

The newspaper quoted state Parks Department officials as saying that actual costs threaten to slow development of stage one of the 1,700-acre park located between Forrest City and Wynne.

Parks officials are seeking $450,000 from the state Game and Fish Commission to offset the amount of initial land cost estimates in 1968 and 1969. The Game and Fish Commission money, if approved, would be matched by a federal grant. The 1971 legislature appropriated $1.3 million for park land acquisition on the basis of the 1968-1969 estimates.

One parks official was quoted by the newspaper as saying the land probably would cost about $2.4 million.

William Henderson, director of the state Parks Department, said that unless additional money is obtained, the initial development of the park could be impeded.

The park is the biggest state park ever planned in Arkansas.

Airlines will seal exits

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Aviation Administration has granted the airlines permission to seal the rear exits of Boeing 727, Douglas DC9 and British BAC111 jet transports to frustrate hijackers.

Three airlines — Trans World, American and Braniff — already have sealed such exits on 727s to prevent their use in flight.

Secretary of Transportation John A. Volpe said Tuesday that closing of the exits was part of a series of government-industry efforts to thwart hijackers through improved ground and flight security.

He said the action is a temporary measure pending final action on FAA proposal to require modification of rear exits so that they can be opened from the inside when the plane is on the ground, but not when it is taking off or is in flight.

FAA Administrator John Shaffer said six hijackers have used rear stairway exits to parachute from 727s and DC9s. The 727, DC9 and BAC111 are the only airline jets with rear exits. Some 1,000 such planes are in service.

A spokesman for American Airlines, which sealed the doors on its fleet of 100 Boeing 727s, said the rear exit is the only way a hijacker could parachute. "If he jumped from the side door, he'd be swept into the engine," the spokesman said.

3 prisoners charged in shooting

HUNTSVILLE, Tex. (AP) — Three prisoners have been charged with murder and assault to murder here in connection with a state prison shooting spree Tuesday that left a deputy sheriff dead and a state police officer wounded.

The three men, who did not escape, were identified as Bruce Alan Behnke, 18, and Don Marshall Pettit, 18, both of Greenville; and Jodie Thurman Adair, 37, of Commerce.

They are charged with the murder of Deputy Rayburn Shipp, 61, of the Hunt County Sheriff's Department in Greenville, who was shot in the back of the head.

In satisfactory condition at Huntsville Memorial Hospital late Tuesday was Highway Patrolman Gale McMullen.

The shootings occurred as the officers escorted the three prisoners to the diagnostic unit of the state penitentiary here.

The sheriff's department said Shipp was sitting in the passenger seat in the front of the car when it arrived at the diagnostic unit.

One of the men in the back seat managed to get his hand between the side of the car and the seat and grab Shipp's .357 magnum pistol. Shipp was shot twice in the back of the head and possibly also in the chest as he turned around, officers said.

McMullen, 24, of Tyler, managed to leap out of the car although one shot was fired at him, hitting him near the eye.

McMullen held the three men at pistol-point after they emptied Shipp's revolver of its five shots. All three were still handcuffed together.

At that moment a sociologist employed by the Department of Corrections, Ronnie Bryan, drove up. McMullen ordered him to telephone the sheriff's department for help.

The three prisoners are now in Walker County jail.

Behnke was serving a 25-year sentence for arson.

Jobs bill expected to be OK'd

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $5 billion budget-busting, job-making public works bill was expected to be approved by the House today despite administration opposition.

Sponsors of the measure, led by Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., claimed enough votes to send the bill to the Senate and to override a veto if it should be forthcoming.

"This goes beyond politics," said Patman, chairman of the House Banking and Currency Committee which approved the bill by vote of 19 to 4.

The bill would authorize the Secretary of Housing and Urban Development to make up to $5 billion in grants to states and local governments for basic public works and facilities such as sewage treatment plants. The grants could be for the entire amount of the projects in some cases.

Actual funds would have to be provided in a separate appropriation measure.

The grants would be available to all communities, with priorities for economically depressed areas, rural areas losing substantial population, and areas with persistent or increasing joblessness.

House Speaker Carl Albert, D-Okla., cited statistics indicating that for every $1 million of public funds invested in such local projects, 100 jobs would be created. At that rate, the $5 billion program would generate 500,000 construction jobs and, Albert estimated, up to 500,000 other positions created by the stimulus to local economies.

The Banking Committee estimated that the entire $5 billion to finance sewer, water and other facilities will be committed for expenditure by the end of 1972, and all of the money will have been spent by June 30, 1974.

NY opera future changed by death of Goeran Gentele

By MARY CAMPBELL

NEW YORK (AP) — Stunned by the death of Goeran Gentele, the new general manager of the Metropolitan Opera, the Met's board of directors meets today to discuss the company's future.

Gentele, 54, and two of his daughters, Cecilia Anne, 21, and Beatrice, 15, were killed Tuesday when a car the conductor was driving collided head-on with a truck in Sardinia, where the family was vacationing.

Gentele's wife, Marit, and daughter Janette, 27, were taken to a hospital in Olbia, Sardinia. Their conditions were reported improved today.

News of the Swedish conductor's death brought reactions of shock.

Conductor Leonard Bernstein, reached at Tanglewood in Massachusetts, said, "It's impossible. What can one say? He was so dear, so enthusiastic, so excited and exciting. I was so looking forward to working with him." Bernstein is scheduled to conduct "Carmen," the Met's opening night opera Sept. 16.

Mayor John V. Lindsay called the accident "a devastating tragedy."

WITH TOGETHERNESS a new if slight trend between South Korea and North Korea—they had a conference with talk of reunification on the agenda—here is a geographical picture of the situation. Dotted line is the demarcation. Communist North Korea seems to be angling for a Western tie, to thwart possible Moscow or Peking domination.

tating tragedy." He said, "Goe-ran Gentele was a great artist most certainly headed for further greatness. He loved New York. And he was a warm friend."

George S. Moore, the Met board chairman, said, "The company will carry on with the whole season just as Mr. Gentele planned it."

Moore said there would be no quick decision as to Gentele's successor. "We're all in shock," he said.

The board meeting had already been scheduled. In the meantime, it was believed that Moore planned to recommend that Schuyler Chapin, Gentele's assistant, be appointed acting manager.

Gentele had spent last season at the Met learning the ropes from his predecessor, Sir Rudolf Bing, and planning the 1973-74 season. Because opera seasons are planned two years in advance, Gentele's first season would have been largely as planned by Sir Rudolf.

Although he assumed full control of the Met only on June 30 when Bing stepped down, sweeping changes had taken place at the opera house since Gentele was named general manager 19 months ago.

He hired the company's first black conductor, Henry Lewis, the husband of Lena Horne and conductor of the New Jersey Symphony.

Gentele also planned a Piccolo Met, to offer small-scale operatic concerts. He appointed the first music director in the company's history, Rafael Kubelik. In addition, he hoped to bring Ingmar Bergman to the company as a director and planned to encourage informal attire at the opera. He said one of his most important goals was to "Americanize" the Met. Gentele, who was born in Stockholm, sometimes directed operas himself as a producer at the Stockholm Royal Opera from 1950 to 1963 and as general manager from 1963 until coming to New York. He came to opera through acting and directing for stage and film.

Gov. Bumpers to receive report

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Gov. Dale Bumpers is expected to receive near the end of the week a State Police investigation into an alleged bribery attempt of a state Racing Commission member.

KARK-TV of Little Rock quoted informed sources Tuesday that the report will conclude that no bribe was offered.

Bumpers said June 1 that he had ordered the investigation following an article in Sports Illustrated magazine. The article dealt with Emprise Corp. of Buffalo, N. Y., which owns 46 per cent of the stock in the Southland greyhound race track at West Memphis.

The article said that an Arkansas Racing commissioner described to "an out-of-state police investigator how he was approached and offered a large amount of cash to vote right at license renewal time, right being with Emprise."

The television station quoted sources close to the investigation as saying that Bumpers will receive the State Police report near the end of the week and will conclude that no bribe attempt had been made toward a racing commissioner as described by Sports Illustrated.

The governor said Tuesday he will review the report and if there was any indication of possible criminal violation he would turn the report over to the prosecuting attorney's office.

After reviewing the report, Bumpers said he probably would turn it over to the Racing Commission, which meets Monday to take up its show-cause order on why Southland's franchise should not be revoked.

New emphasis put on health problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to put new emphasis on health problems of America's aged and perhaps find ways to slow the process of growing old.

By 300 to 10, the House passed and sent to the Senate Tuesday a $20 million authorization bill to provide a new federal focal point for dealing with health needs of the elderly.

This includes setting up a new national institute of aging within the existing National Institutes of Health—an idea opposed by the Nixon administration—and providing a grant program for mental health facilities to serve the aged.

In his report to the House, Commerce Committee Chairman Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va. said it has been pointed out at hearings "that we understand very little about the aging process, and means to slow it or arrest it.

"It has been discovered that the average lifespan of a number of strains of mice can be significantly increased by the addition of one of a number of relatively common chemicals called antioxidants to the daily diet.

"In some cases these increases in average lifespan have been as much as 25 to 45 per cent and it may be that this could be done in human beings as well"

The administration contended it would be impractical to consider diseases only as they affect the aged and it opposed the idea of a separate institute.

90,000 Shriners in Dallas for 98th session

DALLAS (AP) — Crimson-fleeced Shriners on foot and riding all sorts of conveyances marched, danced and sang through Dallas streets in what some acclaimed as the longest parade in the city's history.

The eight-mile-long procession, lasting five and one-half hours, was staged Tuesday as part of a weeklong 100th birthday celebration which has brought 90,000 Shriners here for the 98th Imperial Council Session of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine.

They marched to 1,000 drums in 40 bands and rode in patrols of motorcycles, kiddy cycles, Model T. Fords, fire engines, cabooses and mounted horses.

One of those taking part was Probate Judge Gardiner Wilson Jr., 80, who donned his colorful costume of the Aleppo Temple First Arab Patrol for his 49th such parade.

"You know, we're all just little boys at heart," Wilson said. "We just grew up physically—that's all."

Their first business session followed the Shriners' parade, and then they proceeded to Texas Stadium in suburban Irving for a giant show called "Shrineganza."

It featured comedian Bob Hope and song writer Meredith Wilson on the same bill with a high-wire motorcyclist and a woman diver who leaped 50 feet from a hot air balloon to land on a cushion. Composer Wilson conducted the 40 Shrine bands in a massed concert playing his Shrine centennial march, written specially for the occasion.

When the celebrations opened Monday, C. Victor Thornton, Imperial Potentate and a member of Fort Worth's Moslah Temple, read a telegram from President Nixon applauding the Shriners' "good works over these 10 decades."

Almas Temple of Washington presented the Imperial Potentate and each Texas temple a flag that was flown over the nation's capital last July 4, Independence Day.

Hernia needs repairing again

By Lawrence Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb—I have a hernia problem. Actually I had a double operation in 1945. One side held but the other didn't. I was operated on again in 1962 and it didn't hold either. In fact the stitches let go shortly after I was out of the hospital. The doctor told me I was allergic to catgut so I decided to leave the hernia as it was and just wear a belt. In 1967 I had a prostate operation and I was found to be a borderline diabetic. The doctor told me to watch my diet, but since I was a hard worker I didn't bother much and as a result I had a heart attack in 1969. Now I have no choice but to watch my diet.

After the heart attack I was told that I should have the hernia repaired, but to wait one year. I have let it go but I'm now at retirement age. I would like to have this hernia operated on since I'm tired of wearing a belt and just can't see myself walking around the rest of my life with this sac hanging down, plus the fact that it does hurt at times. On the other hand, I am afraid. If I do have the operation, is there any way to have it reinforced so it would hold? Is there any danger because of my heart condition? How do I go about finding a specialist in this field? The medical bureau is not of much help.

Dear Reader—Unless a complete medical examination proves that you have some underlying serious medical problem, I am all for you having your hernia repaired. The truth is that they can cause trouble, and the older you get the more difficult it will be for you to have surgery. So you're really not gaining much at this point. Since you've had surgery before, you already know that the operation really isn't that difficult. It's really minor surgery (at least for everyone except the patient). The real problem is being sure that you do get a successful repair, and you've already had some difficulties along those lines.

Many people who have had heart attacks and have had a reasonable recovery have actually undergone a major surgery without any real difficulty. Of course, your surgeon would like to know about your attack because it may have some influence on what type of anesthetic he might choose. Your best way to find a competent surgeon who performs these types of operations is to ask your family doctor to refer you to the nearest university medical center. This would insure you that your operation would be at least supervised by top-notch specialists in the field. I would think that your family doctor could arrange this referral for you.

the king of clubs and shifted to a diamond. South went up with dummy's ace and promptly led a trump to his king.

West showed out and South suddenly realized that he was going to have to lose three more tricks. He did try to save his contract by leading his queen of spades, but West was smart enough to duck and eventually South had to lose another club, spade and a trump and the good will of his partner.

South had the insurance play at his disposal. He should have played the jack of trumps instead of the king. This would have cost him a trick if West had held the queen, but it would not have been the contract trick.

Just give West the queen. He takes it happily and makes the best lead of another diamond. South ruffs; plays a high trump to pull the last one out against him and leads a club. West takes his ace, but can't keep South from getting to dummy with the eight of trumps for two spade discards on the queen and jack of clubs.

WORLD ALMANAC FACTS

Any person who runs for election to a political office is called a candidate. In ancient Rome, political candidates strove to look their best during election campaigns and wore immaculate white togas to impress voters. The World Almanac notes. The Roman word "candidate" signifies a person dressed in white.

NEW YORK (AP) — Trends and directions in the American economy that might affect your pocketbook and life style now or in the future:

—The two-year boom in housing continues with only a slight tendency to soften. During the first five months of the year builders were erecting living quarters at an annual rate of 2.4 million units a year, double that of a few years ago.

Many people incorrectly assume that units mean single-family houses, but it isn't so. At the end of the first quarter there were 547,500 units of that type under construction. But there were 816,000 units in multiple dwellings.

Multiple housing means anything of more than one apartment, but generally much more. Large apartment houses, condominiums, cooperatives and furnished rental units make up a larger than normal percentage in recent years.

—If you are an ordinary consumer, your confidence in the immediate economic future is now almost completely in the grip of the electioneering. And it is falling.

That is the interpretation offered by Sindlinger & Co., which telephones American households every day of the week to determine their views on present and future income, employment and business conditions.

Albert Sindlinger, who operates the poll as part of a larger marketing and research operation, claims that the economic outlook has been entwined with political hopes and fears since May.

Confidence rose almost steadily from recession level in June 1971 and peaked in March, according to the Sindlinger figures. Since this is a forecast index, or a measure of expectation six months into the future, it suggests an economic peak in August and September.

The index charts an almost steady economic decline from there to the end of the year, with the sharpest downturn coming right after the election.

—Do union members have rights in management decisions? Labor union officials feel that they not only do but that it is an inevitable, logical development of the union movement. Management thinks otherwise.

"An ominous new direction for collective bargaining," says the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in reaction to comments on "industrial democracy" by a United Auto Workers official.

Suit is filed against GMC

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Testimony opened in Circuit Court here Tuesday on a $1.2 million suit against General Motors Corp.

Mrs. Mary Magee, 35, of Little Rock filed suit after an automobile accident in 1969, which the suit said left her husband, Thomas Magee, 36, with traumatic brain damage.

Minimum wage bogged down in Senate

By JOE HALL

WASHINGTON (AP) — The minimum wage bill has bogged down in the Senate amid charges by some sponsors that presidential politics are to blame for the delay.

The Democratic-sponsored bill would boost the wage floor from $1.60 to $2.20 an hour and make other changes in the law. It is of particular importance to the AFL-CIO.

The bill was brought up in the Senate Monday, but Republicans quickly countered with a substitute pushed by President Nixon that would put the minimum at $2 and eliminate many provisions of the Democratic proposal.

The substitute is strongly opposed by the AFL-CIO. Senate Democrats said they hope to defeat it.

They said they were particularly anxious to demonstrate their commitment to labor on the issue because of the unhappiness of some AFL-CIO leaders over the Democratic national ticket.

After a series of cloakroom huddles, agreement was reached among Senate leaders to vote Thursday on the key issue of the GOP substitute.

The agreement also provides that a vote on final passage of the measure will take place before Thursday night.

Some Democrats charged privately that the Republicans did not want to vote until after the AFL-CIO executive council meeting today to discuss the question of a presidential endorsement.

The Democrats said Republicans felt that pushing the $2 substitute in advance of the council session might hurt them with labor.

The role of Sen. George McGovern, the Democratic standard bearer, also came in for comment from some Democrats.

McGovern's office said he had no plans to interrupt his rest-and-planning vacation in South Dakota to return here to vote on the minimum wage legislation.

But a number of Democrats asking that their names not be used, said they believe McGovern should return at least to vote.

Boyling it down

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — A lot of people think they'd like to have the chance to live their life all over again.

Why? Who would really yearn to go through all that folderol twice?

Who would want to be a small blob of wailing protoplasm spending half its time trying to get milk out of a bottle? Not me.

Who would like to wear a wardrobe of diapers and be stuck with endless safety pins? Not me.

Who would like to go through that prewalking period, when everytime you stand up you promptly fall on your bottom? Not me.

Who would like to be baby-talked to, dandled on knees, and tossed up in the air and caught like a football? Not me.

Who would like to have to trot and gallop to piano music around a kindergarten again? Not me.

Who would like to be a little boy again and be indoctrinated into the false chivalric philosophy that it is all right for little girls to step on you but that you must never step on little girls? Not me.

Who could stand again the agony of falling in puppy love with a series of snooty little red-haired girls in grammar school? Not me.

Who would want to go through the mumps, chicken pox, and measles again? Not me.

Who would want to spend hours as a child staring into a mirror and wondering who you were and what you were and why you were, and trying to decide whether Santa Claus, the devil and God were really real or only adult fictions? Not me.

Who would want to go through the suicidal ordeal of adolescence and acne again? Not me.

Who would like to face up again to the choice of a career, to have to settle on the one thing you'd spend your life doing, when you really like to do at least two dozen things? Not me.

Who'd want to go through college again, suspicious that most of your professors, like most of the grownups in the outside world, were either deformed idealists or time-serving hypocrites? Not me.

Who would like to be 21 or 22 years old and evicted from your academic shelter with nothing between you and starvation but a thin sheepskin—cheerless, jobless, unwanted? Not me.

No, indeed. Why should anyone want to live all his life over?

On the other hand, who would like to skip all those doldrum and questioning years and start life again as a young man of 25 with a good job, a wallet full of credit cards, a sports car, a bachelor apartment and an address book full of the phone numbers of single young ladies anxious to prove how liberated they were?

Who would? After me, you!
